“Speaking the Truth in Love”

“But speaking the truth in love, may grow up into him in all things, which is the head, even Christ” (Eph. 4:15).

In the church, truth and love must never be separated. Paul wrote that we are to “speak the truth in love” so that we may grow up in all things into Christ, who is the head. The goal of our words should always be to help one another become more like Him.

The Apostle Paul reminds us that spiritual maturity is marked not just by what we say, but by how we say it. “Speaking the truth in love” means that our words must always reflect both honesty and compassion. Truth without love can wound; love without truth can mislead. But when the two walk hand in hand, they strengthen and build up the body of Christ

There are times when truth must be spoken plainly—even when it is uncomfortable. Sin must be addressed, error must be corrected, and souls must be warned. Yet these things must always be done with a heart of love, not out of anger, pride, or a desire to be right. When love guides our speech, even difficult words can bring healing and growth.

As we teach, encourage, and correct one another, let us remember the example of Jesus. He spoke truth without compromise, but He did so with compassion for those who were lost and hurting. May our words reflect that same spirit.

“Let all that you do be done with love.” — 1 Corinthians 16:1
